“ Dearest Kriske Family, Tina, Guy, Justin, Andrew and Brandon: You are all held gently in my heart and in the hearts of the entire Sangha here at The Savannah Zen Center. I am so glad to have met Adam. His true nature was clear and shining. We are so honored to have Justin here with us, and look forward to seeing the family here again when we do. It is with regret that circumstances made it impossible for Betsy Freeman and I to attend the service, and honored that David Bates was able to be there. I, as are all, am grieving right along with sharing the joy of Adam's presence. We love Justin and all of you, and will continue to be here for Justin in All ways. Plans for a memorial plaque in our garden are under way. The love and support that I send to you in each moment cannot be expressed in words. Deep Bow to All of you, and know that I am here if you need. Always, Rev. Cindy Beach##imported-begin##Rev. Fugon Cindy Beach##imported-end##

“ Mr. and Mrs. Kriske, Justin, Andrew, Brandon

I want to thank all of you for allowing me to step into your life as an 'almost stranger--once met' to participate in Adam's life and his commeration. The whole fabric of everyone, the words shared, the words understood but unspoken, the photographs of Adam and family members, the scripture readings and the genuine words spoken by others and the picture drawing of Adam with the question of 'do you see me as I see myself or am' (I forget which) really allowed me to experience the laughter, humor, creativity and dynamism of Adam.

It was only the next day after the service when I had made my way past metro and somewhere before Macon that I stopped and as I sat in my car and ate a snack my grief hit me. I had been so engrossed in the moment to moment events, the holiday traffic, that I had missed what was coming forth and obviously had been there. And, then I realized the sigificant work of the days and months ahead for all of you. But, underneath everything--my questioning of why, the enormous loss I could see the vast sky underneath and knew that there was nothing I could do intellectually or emotionally to resolve this but to focus on the fact I was here and what did I need to do next. Just know I and members of the Savannah Zen Center treasure all of you and send compassion and comfort. I hope in the days ahead we'll find a way to make concrete Adam's life in our own religious community.

Beings are numberless, I vow to awaken with them.

“ Among all the sadness in losing such a genuine soul like Adam, there is a certain joy in knowing that Adam will play his music to a crowd every night for his eternal life. And his gift will have no limits - I will miss the joy Adam brought to my dear friend Tina, but I know their love lasts forever.##imported-begin##Shawn Zahedi##imported-end##

NFCC will not be the same without you, but all the donated cowboy boots and hats will bring back memories of your time with us.
