He was one of the most amazing bosses I've ever had. Loving, family oriented, and genuinely caring—Danny always made sure his staff was taken care of. He spoke life and positivity in me, kept us laughing with his endless jokes and riddles, and even placed friendly bets on who could guess them right.

There was never a dull moment with Danny around. He created a workplace that felt more like family—filled with joy, laughter, and away try sneak up and scare us .. I'll truly miss hearing your voice. And slamming the office doors. Lol especially when Shannon pissed him off so funny.

The last time we spoke, you were so full of happiness. to let me know you had got married to the love of your life Lisa!!! That's how I'll remember you.

Rest well, Danny. You were an incredible leader/ Boss and an even more incredible person.

I am going to miss him. I was so happy to hear from him because he told me that he got married. He was so excited, and he stated that I wanted my friend to know what he did over the weekend. When the cancer came back, we talked, and he asked if I would pray for him. I was honored to do that for him. I am glad that he isn't suffering any longer.

I am going to miss my jokes and the funny things he would do to make me laugh.

I speak life and strength to his family during this time.

See you when God calls us home!!

“ Danny was a kind and thoughtful person to me. I'm Tiny's ex-wife, and he treated me like a daughter, trusting me to work in the office even though I wasn't hired to do so. I couldn't get past those corny Jokes, thought. LOL. I know God has a plan for him in heaven. He will be missed.
