“ I am shocked and saddened to hear about Ned’s passing. He and I went to Fredonia years ago. He was incredibly bright, and had a tremendous capacity for appreciating art and music. He always brought a smile to my heart and mind. My deepest condolences to his wife, and to Norm and Judy, whom I remember with the same warm affection. “ First of all, I'd like to extend my condolences to Ned's family. I just found out and I'm in shock. I worked with Ned at NSI-MI Technologies. I learned and grew as an engineer with him. I used to challenge him on a lot of mathematical derivations and never backdown from any of the challenges. He was my role model and he will always be. I helped him move to a new downtown apartment near the Atlanta Coca Cola plant when he was still single. He bought beer and lunch as a way to bribe me to spend a full Saturday with the move. I went to several live music events around Atlanta and it was always fun to be around him. I'm really sad to learn about his passing and it will take me a few days to processes it. I remember when he told me about his trip to Costa Rica and how he fell hard for a beautify girl there that he later married. I don't understand how a kind, intelligent, mature, ethicall and moral person can be taken from us. To his wife... I hope you can find the peace and goodness that he saw in you and rest knowing that I'll always miss and remember him with a smile and feel bless that I was able to enjoy a short time with him. I'm sorry about the long rambling entry. Hope you (Ned's family) all find the strength to push through this difficult time.

“ Ned was a great colleague and an excellent engineer. I appreciated his calm demeanor and willingness to help, even when it meant travelling to Korea in the thick of Covid! He was a pleasure to be around, and I will miss him. My condolences to his family.

“ Una de mis fotos favoritas con mi persona favorita. Uno nunca se imagina lo que tiene la vida para uno. Hacemos planes, nos ilusionamos, los disfrutamos, somos felices y de repente se siente que la vida se termina, duele respirar, el día se vuelve noche y las noches más largas y oscuras. Empiezas a disfrutar del silencio a preguntarte el porqué de las cosas. Vivir de recuerdos bonitos de sueños y aventuras planeadas que ya no serán concretadas en la forma en la que se pensó.

Un compañero de vida que me enseñó tanto, con él que reí, lloré, disfrute muchísimo al cual siempre voy a llevar en mi alma porque lo bonito nunca se va siempre esta, siempre se recuerda y se guarda en el corazón.

Me pregunto mucho el porqué de las cosas, que pude haber hecho para cambiar algo para que la historia fuese diferente, pero no me llega una respuesta. Solo se que tengo que estar agradecida con Dios por permitirme conocer y compartir lo mucho, lo bueno y lo bonito con mi Esposito. Hoy CELEBRAMOS TU VIDA. Solo ruego Dios para que encuentres la paz que tanto tu alma necesita y que me ayude a seguir en este camino lleno de cambios fríos.

Muchas gracias a todas esas personitas que oran por nosotros. Se que son muchas. Puedo sentir como sus oraciones me fortalecen.

Dios les multiplique!

Con amor

One of my favorite photos with my favorite person. You never imagine what life has in store for you. We make plans, we get excited, we enjoy them, we are happy and suddenly it feels like life is over, it hurts to breathe, the day turns into night and the nights become longer and darker. You begin to enjoy the silence and wonder why things happen. Living with beautiful memories of dreams and planned adventures that will no longer be realized in the way in which it was thought.

A life partner who taught me so much, with whom I laughed, I cried, I enjoyed a lot, whom I will always carry in my soul because the beautiful never goes away, it is always there, it is always remembered and kept in my heart.

I ask myself a lot about why things happen, what I could have done to change something so that the story would be different, but I don't get an answer. I only know that I have to be grateful to God for allowing me to know and share the much, the good and the beautiful with my Esposito. Today we celebrate your life. I just pray to God that you find the peace that your soul needs so much and that he helps me continue on this path full of cold changes.

Thank you very much to all those people who pray for us. I know there are many. I can feel how your prayers strengthen me.

*God multiply you all
With love,
Nancy and Cash 🐶*

“ It's hard to choose my best memory, they were all great. Ned was very special to me. I remember we went to the beach in Panama City and relaxed on the beach. At night we went out to see the place, I will carry that trip in my heart forever. I feel extremely grateful to you because you shared your life with us for a little while, thank you for your bad jokes, because they really were very bad haha, for your delicious food, for being so attentive and thousands of other things, forever in my heart brother-in-law. ❤️

“ Ned was a bright, curious boy who loved engaging with people and sharing his boundless knowledge whenever he was able .
He loved the outdoors and would spend countless hours roaming the countryside near their home and rafting and swimming in the nearby river.
Once he started school he was eager to do well and often pushed himself to be the best.
After high school he embraced vegetarianism and exercise and was an avid cyclist , runner and fitness guru.
As the years progressed we heard about Ned’s accomplishments from his mom and dad about how his life was progressing.
It is with great sadness that we are writing this but know that Ned is now at peace .

“ Ned was patient and kind to me, for example explaining the 18 term planar near field error model. Sorry for the loss of such a devoted husband, son, nephew, cousin and friend.
