“ Lester, it was such a shock and sorrow to hear of your loss. Having gone through the loss of a wife, I know something of the pain you are in, but I also know that God will carry you through this dark valley. That doesn't take the pain away, but it does give us hope and confidence. May God minister to you and your family through His body here on earth as well as His Spirit.##imported-begin##John Worley##imported-end##

“ Our deepest sympathy to Faye's family. We enjoyed getting to know her as our son, Grant's, teacher. She touched our lives in the very short time we knew her. I'll never forget her comforting presence greeting Grant at carpool and in the classroom during the scary time of starting kindergarten at a big, new school. We will never forget how she touched our lives.

Our prayers of comfort are for your family. She is truly missed.##imported-begin##Pat, Jill & Grant Myrick##imported-end##

“ So sorry. Bittersweet. I'm sorry for you Buddy and for you Lindsey but Lord, I'm happy for Faye. She made it home for Christmas this year. She's cancer free and has gotten over what we all have still got to face. I know that doesn't help right now. Nothing anybody says can help. When we lost Daddy, all these well-meaning people with their words didn't help at all. I just wanted to tell them all to hush. Everyone grieves in their own way and in their own time so, both of you do what you want to do to handle the situation. Phil & I are here if you need us. We'll see you tomorrow night. God bless you both.
