Professor Ishwar Basawa was a highly valued member of our Statistics department at UGA, recognized for his outstanding contributions to teaching, research, mentorship, and leadership. He served as Interim Department Head from 2000 to 2003, guiding the department through a challenging transition as it sought new leadership. Despite the formidable internal challenges of this period, the department sustained an exceptional level of scholarly activity and productivity.

Professor Basawa's influential work in Inference for Stochastic Processes has left a lasting impact, and his unwavering dedication to his students, research, and service continues to inspire many, including myself.

Beyond his professional accomplishments, Professor Basawa was a treasured friend and mentor, admired for his kindness, wisdom, sense of humor, and generosity. He embodied the qualities of a true gentleman, earning the deep respect and affection of all who had the privilege of knowing him.

We extend our heartfelt condolences to his family during this difficult time.

Ishwar was an outstanding research and teacher. Most importantly, he was a fine colleague and a fine person. I remember with fondness the joint research with Ishwar, service on each other's doctoral students' committees and productive conferences in his and my offices at UGA.

A fulfilled life. I was a PhD student and took several classes with Professor Basawa. He was a prolific researcher and cared for students. When I was a new student from India, he learned (from another professor) that I only had enough money for a short time. He called me to his office and wrote a check. When I got my TA check, I went to give him the money back. He told me to take another month or two to return the money, as I might need it. He knew that we got so little as TAs in those days. He was always willing to help/advise me.

Condolences to the family.

Rest in peace, Professor Basawa.
