

Joshua Benjamin Goforth

August 25, 1980 - April 21, 2010

Josh was tragically taken from us on April 21, 2010 in a car wreck. He was driving home from work and evidently fell asleep at the wheel, crossed the center line and slammed head on into an SUV. The other driver sustained injuries that were not life threatening and for that we are very grateful. We pray for the quick recovery for her and her family and are very sorry that their lives had to be disrupted also. But Josh was much more than simply a “traffic statistic”. He was a lot of different things to different people. He was a son. A father. A brother. A husband. And a friend to many. He had a very dry wit, made friends easily and could manipulate anyone to get what he wanted. He loved to read and Kurt Vonnegut was one of his favorite authors. In fact he had a phrase from the novel Slaughterhouse Five tattooed on his lower leg. He had to explain to many people that the phrase “So it goes” was not just something he thought of himself, but was actually a literary reference. He was also an aspiring writer and spent a lot of his free time writing and was working on a screenplay at the time of his passing. He was a complicated and independent child who grew into a complicated, independent and caring man. We members of his family are proud of who he was and what he became. He was a responsible, loving and engaged father of the light of his life, Dayde Benjamin Goforth who is two years old at the time of Josh’s passing. He and his wife, Aleigh were demonstrating to Dayde that love, tolerance, acceptance and positive compromise make a very strong relationship. He loved life and embraced it to the utmost. He was very proud of his heritage and family name.

His brother, father and he had identical tattoos reading "GOFORTH" across their backs. One of the first gifts that his newborn son received was a blue jean jacket with "GOFORTH" scripted across the back, just like his dad's tattoo.

He was also very proud of the fact that he had been clean since September 11, 2009 thanks to the love, care and work with members of Narcotics Anonymous. He attended meetings regularly at the H.O.W. place and had many friends there. For those of you that are in a 12 step program and are concerned about breaching Josh's anonymity, please be assured that Josh made his wishes well known to his family. If you still have a problem, please speak with your sponsor. If you don't have a sponsor, get over it because you have bigger issues than this. He was a delight to be around and had a cute, yet annoying habit of watching movies and TV shows over, and over, and over, then repeating the lines to you mere SECONDS before the line was spoken on the screen. He thought it was great. Many found it annoying. At the time, I found it annoying. Now I miss it. Words cannot describe the shock and loss we are all feeling now. The real impact of his passing will only be felt in the coming days, months and years. Please keep his family and his young son in your thoughts and prayers in this difficult time. The only comfort we can draw at this time is that we firmly believe that he is going to "meet us in the clearing at the end of the path." Those that were left behind include: John and Sue Goforth (father and mother), Aleigh Essex Goforth (wife and mother of his beautiful son), Dayde Benjamin Goforth (son, and absolutely, incredibly beautiful and smart), Brad Goforth (dear brother and "the rock" when Josh was having tough times), numerous cousins, aunts, uncles, in-laws and friends.

Those that knew him will miss him horribly. Those that did not missed out on an incredible ride. We love you and miss you more that you will ever know. Please join us in celebrating Josh's life at a memorial service at 11:00 AM on Saturday, April 24, 2010 at Northside Chapel Funeral Directors, 12050

“ John and Sue,
I am so sorry for your loss. My thoughts and prayers are with you and your family. It is hard to think of anything that is comforting for you at this time but know that Josh will always continue to be in your heart and you memories forever. You will also probably see a glimpse of him in your precious grandson as he gets older a look, a smile, a laugh will be Josh.##imported-begin##Char Carrigan##imported-end##

“ John & Sue

I never met Josh. As a parent of three kids, I can and do appreciate the uniqueness of every child - their successes, struggles and dreams. I am so sorry that Josh had his opportunity to reach his dreams (and yours) cut short so tragically. Life isn't as fair as it should be, but then the journey isn't supposed to be simple either. I wish you, Brad, Aleigh and Dayde the best in life going forward. Remember and treasure the "good times" - smile every chance you get.

I was very moved in reading the obit on the website. I think I know who he got his writing talents from - No "dis" intended Sue ;-)

It's kind of strange as I write this my daughter, Meghan, is now overdue with our first grandchild. Mary and I look forward to they joys you both are having and will continue to have with Josh's son. Perhaps Dayde will have as much of Josh in him as Josh had of John - I see alot of John in Josh's picture.

Best to all with my deepest sympathies.

God bless... Brian##imported-begin##Brian Robson##imported-end##

“ Dear John & Sue,
Betty and I are in complete shock to learn of this sudden and tragic news. We are so sorry for your loss of a son, and the loss of a father. It has been a long long time since our days together in Dallas and then Atlanta. But if it makes just one little tiny bit of difference in your time of sorrow,... we want you to know that you have many friends like us who may be far away but are thinking about you, your family and Josh. Again, we are deeply saddened by your son's passing. May Josh rest in peace.

“ Dear Sue and John,

Kimberley and I want to express our sincere thoughts and prayers to you and your family. Like you, as parents, we can't fully grasp the tragic loss of your son or what you are feeling day to day.

I had just commented to Kimberley about our quick conversation and how out of the loop I was not knowing you had moved back to the ATL. John, if you recall you went on to tell me how well Josh was doing and how cute the new grandson is.

Like so many Josh left this earth way too soon. I truly believe God has a plan for all of us. Sadly that plan can be muddied way to easily and the pain and hurt too great at times. I hope that as each day passes, you can look at the wonderful times with Josh and smile, laugh or cry.

John, you have been my manager, mentor and friend over the years. I wish I had a quote, line or saying to help during this incredibly trying time. I hope you will lean on friends when needed and I welcome the opportunity to help in any way.

“ Hi John and Sue,

I regret that I never got to know each of you as well as I would have liked while you lived in Dallas, but even from a distance I observed the love you all had for each other, the people in the Program and for your Josh. Our children bring us the biggest joy, and the deepest heartache. They help us live more fully. Please know that I have been praying for you all. I have a little "rock garden" on my desk at home. I have a "Goforth Rock". I do this as a little prompt to pray. I will slip a rock in my purse as a reminder to pray throughout the day as I dig in my purse for one thing or another. The "Goforth Rock" will have a place in my purse for awhile as I pray that God comfort you all, give you a measure of peace and bring an assurance into your lives that He loves and cares for all of you. God bless and when you feel discouraged remember Debbie's rock is prompting prayers on your behalf.

“ John (and Sue),
I cannot even imagine what you must be feeling now but wanted you to know that there are those of us that have never forgotten you and understand what it means to be a parent forever and no matter what. Your love and support for him is and was remarkable and for that you should be very proud.
I worked with John at McKesson for a long time and remember the Josh stories. John was always one of my favorite people at McKesson and I think of him often.
God Bless you and your family at this very sad and difficult time.
And a very lovely tribute to your son. Take good care of that baby

Words cannot describe the feelings and emotions my head is trying to explain to a heart that won't listen.

I'll miss your laughter, your astute observations, and those eyes. Those piercing eyes that always managed to know the thoughts going through my head every time you looked at me, no matter what length of time came between us seeing each other.

You're 29 years too young with the thought process of someone who's already been through life, and decided to go through it again... just because :)

You made me feel so accepted and loved, even in the darkest time of my life. I'm so glad and happy to have called you a friend, but even more so, honored and touched that you considered me a friend to you.
