Am so sad to hear of your loss. While the grief will be hard for you to bear please have faith that she is at peace, that her spirit will be with you and will watch over you always and that you and she will be reunited in the future. Please let Rose and I know if there is anything we can do to ease your burden.

PS

“ Dale,

I am deeply saddened to hear of Teri's passing and praying that you will find comfort in your memories of her and in the knowledge that others are missing her, too. Everyone processes grief differently, but know that is not something that you complete, but rather you endure. It's an alteration of your being and a new definition of yourself, more aware of how precious everyday interactions are, with those you love. May God help you navigate through this change in your life.

In the 90's Teri and I had a lot of laughs, when we worked closely together, traveling throughout Florida to assist with a new system conversion. I even had the chance to meet her parents and a cousin, when we were in Tampa. Once she transferred to Atlanta, she was always a great resource for me and we still kept in contact after she retired. The last time we spoke, she mentioned she may be coming down to Florida, hoping that we could get together. Someone had another trip in mind for her. I envision that "T-Bear" (as her mom called her) was welcomed by her parents and taken in their arms to a place of glory, free of pain and suffering. She will be missed by many!
