

Natasha Singh

January 17, 1967 - March 4, 2021

Compassionate, empathetic and determined. This was Natasha Singh.

Natasha's life was an adventure filled with love, laughter, family and faith.

Born in 1967 in Bangkok Thailand, Natasha grew up in New Delhi and settled in Atlanta after attending Agnes Scott College. She went on to earn additional degrees but was most proud of her MPH that helped her excel at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta, GA.

Natasha was so passionate about her love of the environment, her wanderlust of travel, and an affection for animals.

Natasha was a kindred spirit and worked tirelessly to help anyone but her heart belonged to her beloved dog, Timmy.

Natasha courageously battled cancer for a decade and was an inspiration of strength and dignity. She never gave up and always encouraged everyone to think positively.

Natasha is survived by her cherished and devoted mother, Jogi and her brother Eric “ Natasha was a dear friend and colleague of many years. Our world is smaller without her presence but her spirit will always be with us. We shared many laughs, plenty of tears, long talks, and solved problems big and small. She was everything that all have shared. She lived and fought with gratitude for each day she was given. While it is still hard to believe she is gone, I am comforted by memories, and her strength and resilience. My deepest sympathy to her beloved family and all who called her friend. We love you Natasha and you will be with us always.
