“ Dick volunteered to be the chair of the Housing Authority. At the time the federal government approved tax exempt private activity bonds which required his personal approval and signature on the bonds. Because of his financial background, he executed bonds which were drawn up by myself and Richard Woodward as bond counsel for the Authority along with Steve McCoy, our current state treasure as a NY investment banker. Dick received no compensation and accepted the personal risk to his reputation executing a new type of bond. None of the bonds defaulted and no investor lost a penny on the bonds. However, Dick did enjoy the closing dinners.

My heart goes out to you. Dick was so very special. He was easy to love. I think back on the fun times when he would break out his Elvis songs and you would just shake your head Laura. He brought great laughter and joy into the world. May you find comfort in his memories. Sue
