“ Oh snap! Sooo sad. For you Elaine Vickery Langley and for myself. It does hurt. I hope to keep him alive in my heart by sharing his greatness with others.

Ricky was so generously kind to everyone he met. I know we are cousins but when I was 25, I moved from jax, FL to the ATL for work. Ricky opened his home to me and without complaint drove/went with me to view apartments and take care of the usual transitional things that come with relocating. I reminded him many times I was big now and could handle this...but he just kept supporting me and including me in all his life's activities, and friends. Never asked for a dime. For a month I felt the most secure as I had ever.felt, just like being home in jax. .

I appreciated his kind generosity more than he could ever know. And I truly believe he earned his angel wings here on earth. And I hope he is smiling down on you right now while reading this. I will forever miss you Ricky.

“ It would be a shorter note to express the things I haven't done with Ricky than those things I have. Golf, coaching, poker, lovers of all things UGA, worked several different jobs at the same workplace, heck - Ricky even rented a condo of mine for several years. I feel terrible at his loss. It's been a few years since I have spoken to Ricky as marriage, kids, moving and life in general seemed to get in the way. I always thought there was time to talk to him again later... sadly, later never came and I feel terrible about that.

Perhaps my favorite memory of Ricky was playing golf. Ricky wasn't very good, neither were most of us. But a large group of coaching buddies went to Jackson, Georgia one day to play a little hole in the wall 9-hole course. A friend of ours, Rudy - got sick so Ricky got his permission to use his clubs while Rudy rested up back at the car. Ricky and I were riding together. Well lo and behold we get to a short Par 3 hole with a lake in between us and the green.

Ricky hits his best ball of the day, a rarity, and you see the ball land across the lake and on the green - a beautiful shot... the kind that keeps you coming back to play again and again even though you should probably give up the game.

Folks start hooping & hollering when all of a sudden we hear a splash. One look at Ricky's sheepish face told us what had happened. Ricky had lost the grip on Rudy's club after swinging and the wedge he was using landed in the middle of the lake. I'll never forget that look on Ricky's face or his explanation of what happened to that wedge.

God bless you Ricky for everything and we'll meet again one day I am sure.

“ Coach Vickery was one of my middle school teachers. He was a nice man and always funny. I remember he would tease me about a boy I liked and always tell me that boy was "sweet on me". :) I think I remember reading To Kill A Mockingbird in his class. Now I have a little girl named Scout. I pray that his family would feel God's peace and comfort as they mourn his passing. I pray he is resting in peace with his Creator.

“ Coach Vickery was one of my first teachers when moving from Scotland to America. He was a kind and considerate man who always went out of his way to make sure I was fitting in. I am very sorry to hear of his passing and my thoughts are with his family.

“ In the '80s and '90s was fortunate to get to know Ricky and experience his friendship, his humor, and his passion for sports - especially the Braves, Bulldogs, and all sports at Roswell High School. I lost touch with Ricky when I moved from Atlanta. I am sorry to hear of his passing but am certain everyone in heaven who does not know how to throw a curveball, shortly will. To his family and other friends I send my prayers and sympathy for your loss.

“ Elaine and family,

So sorry to hear about Ricky, we will all miss him greatly. He was just like one of the other kids in the "Ray" family. If you saw Danny or Charles you saw Ricky. He was at several of our family get togethers and we loved having him there.
