“ I remember working with Troy and him making me laugh ALOT, and although he was rough on the outside he would give you the shirt off his back (literally). I can remember that no matter what was going on when Marie walked in the room he would get a little grin on his face, I always thought they were meant for each other. Troy was one of those few people that you could call in the middle of the night for help and if he could he would come, he might show up with his grumpy face on, but he would come. I can remember mornings at the huddle house cringing when the waitress came over worried about what he might say if his coffee wasn't hot(lol 😬). One thing I knew about Troy was that he meant what he said and said what he meant, no one walked away not knowing what Troy meant. A character trait I always respected about him. I know the bible says God created each one of us and knows our every thought, so I hope he remembers how candid Troy is , because when he greets Troy If he asked him how he likes his new robe, Troy will probably tell him its to small and he's not crazy about the color 🤪. Thanks for the laughs, our sympathies go out to the family .

“ My uncle Troy was a pistol in his younger days. I remember, more than once, he would show up at our door in the middle of the night to see his big brother. My dad was the oldest of Samuel Kimbrell's ten children and kept an eye on the kids when granddaddy passed away. And he married a saint. He would get loaded, start missing his brother and just drive to our house, over 300 miles away, without telling his wife beforehand! ... and she just laughed. I was a little girl but I remember when they first started dating he smoked Lucky Strike cigarettes. On the package were the letters L.S.M.F.T. (Lucky Strike Makes Fine Tobacco). He said they stood for Lord Save Marie For Troy. He was a good man, he was a Kimbrell!
